

Elizabeth M. Howell / Associate

Elizabeth M. Howell joined the firm in 2014, following her 2013 graduation from the University of Illinois College Of Law with a Juris Doctor degree. While working toward her degree, Howell worked as a law clerk for an Illinois family law firm, and assisted clients in a number of family law cases. She fell in love with family law because of the ability to work face-to-face with clients on matters that directly impact their daily lives. She particularly enjoys using the legal process to reduce clients' stress during what can be a very difficult time.

Howell is involved with the Louisville community through her pro bono work on Title IX, working on behalf of survivors of on-campus sexual violence and assault. Her work includes presentations to area attorneys and law school classes on how Title IX can be utilized to assist survivors.

Howell is passionate about family law, particularly using alternative dispute resolution methods to amicably and efficiently resolve contentious family law matters. She enjoys advocating for her clients both in and out of the courtroom. Her approach to family law puts clients and their goals first.
